

Photo courtesy of Digital
Craig Photography

Gedling Country Park Memorial Garden

A Memorial Garden has been created at Gedling Country Park to reflect the importance of mining to the Gedling area and to those individuals who once worked in the industry. The garden will also act as a focal point in the park for quiet reflection and remembrance.

Further work is still needed to complete the garden including the provision of mature native trees, benches, Hornbeam hedges and the development of attractive raised borders. The Friends of Gedling Country Park would also like to commission a piece of memorial art work for the new memorial garden.

If you are able to make a contribution to this project, please visit www.gedlingcountrypark.org.uk/donate-or-join.html#Donate

You can also comment on the project via www.facebook.com/GedlingCPsupport

